ASK

Erik Janelle
Product Manager

What are some of the top breakout colour palettes you're seeing in 2021?

Organic / Natural colours are on the rise, with green palettes such as lichen and pistachio as well as earthtones like terracotta leading the way. Either through a monochromatic use or accent, these colours will bring a jetstream of innovation to the industry in the years to come.

How do these colour palettes differ from that of recent years?

We generally saw the use of three basic colors: white, grey and black. Today, we've begun to see the use of earth tones and organic colours, which add a warming factor to a project. They can be used as the main colour or to add an accent / personality to a more neutral space.

ANSWER

How did you come up with the colour palettes for the Marathon Summer 2021 collection?
